Class meets January 4-9 from 9:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. (Distance Learning Course in the Holodeck)

Course Description: In a world with almost limitless data collection capability, where cyber-attacks can propagate instantaneously and where the identity or location of an adversary may not be known, individuals and institutions are increasingly vulnerable to network based intrusions that disrupt productivity, jeopardize privacy, and threaten national security. It is more important than ever that in-house and outside counsel stay abreast of the most current developments and best practices in cybersecurity. Those lawyers who ignore cyber threats are risking millions of dollars for their companies or their clients.

This course examines legal and policy challenges stemming from rapidly evolving cybersecurity threats. The course will begin with an introduction to cyber security and cyber warfare, and then explore the national and international legal frameworks that govern the cyberspace, including laws related to cybercrime, cyberespionage, and cyberwar. The course will also discuss how current laws affect corporations and provide detailed case studies regarding the state of cybersecurity in various countries.

The objective of the course is to contextualize cybersecurity threats and responses to them in a national and international law framework, while also recognizing the limits of current law, the need for further policy evolution, and the real-world impacts of different legal and policy options. No technical knowledge is required.

Non-Profit Corporations/Tax Exempt Organizations (2 credits)
Instructor: Rothman
23:600:769:W1 Reg Index # 00059

Class meets January 2-9 in the Dominican Republic

Course Description: This course studies the “Independent Sector” of the economy – the non-profit corporation. Areas of study will be the organization, management and governance of such corporations; the indirect subsidy of tax exemption; the scope of charity, both nationally and internationally; and the consequences of such organizations engaging in commercial activities. In the winter session, the course is taught as a one-week intensive program in the Dominican Republic, and partners Rutgers Law School, Rutgers School of Public Affairs and Administration and Rutgers Biomedical and Health Sciences School with Cambiando Vidas, an established 501(c)(3) operating principally in the San Juan de la Maguano region of inland D.R., near the Haitian border. Already a successful home-building non-profit modeled on Habitat-for-Humanity, Cambiando Vidas will work with students from the three Rutgers schools in the construction of a sturdy, modern home for a poor family in the rural village of Las Charcas. The Law School team will be comprised of up to 15 upper-level law and SPAA students, who will spend the mornings each day building the home and mingling with the community, and the afternoons and evenings in the classroom. The class will use the case study as its focal point, examining Cambiando Vidas itself, an established 503(c)(3) charitable organization, and will explore developing two new organizations in partnership with the other student groups participating in the program. This course is graded pass/fail.

Students interested in participating in this program should know that in addition to tuition charged by Rutgers, Cambiando Vidas charges $1,200 for costs of the trip (not including airfare). If you are interested in taking this class in January, you should contact Dean Rothman (arothman@kinoy.rutgers.edu) as soon as possible, as space is extremely limited.

Registration Dates

Registration by using the web registration system will open at 9:00 AM on Tuesday, October 20, 2015 and close at 4:00 PM on Friday, November 20, 2015. Students who fail to register for classes or fail to pay tuition during this initial registration period will be charged a $125.00 late fee, will be ineligible to register for any classes which have been lotteried and will be excluded from any waiting lists created for these classes. Lottery lists will be posted before the beginning of term and students will have the opportunity to add courses during the “Drop/Add Period”.

How to Register

Student registration is a two-step process: all students must (1) register for classes online and (2) pay the term bill that will appear on your account after you have registered online. Your registration is not complete until each step is completed.

Students should use the Rutgers Website Registration System to register for all classes. Once you have selected your classes and entered all information required by the Rutgers Website Registration System, you will be required to pay the term bill indicating the charges.

Tuition

Tuition per credit hour for state residents is $986.00 and $1495.00 for non-residents. A student fee of $83.00 will also be added to your term bill. The full payment of tuition for Winter Session must be received by December 7, 2015 to avoid a late fee. Payments not received by the deadline will be assessed at $125.00 late fee. Tuition does not cover travel costs, lab or material fees, online course fees, or books.

The deadline for payment of the term bill is December 7, 2015. Any registration during the late registration period must be done in person and the term bill must be paid on the day of registration. Any bill paid during the late registration period will be assessed a $125 late fee. In addition, a fee of $60 is charged for any check which is not honored for payment. Non-payment of your term bill does not constitute withdrawal, and does not excuse you from payment. Cancellation for non-payment is January 6, 2015. There is a 2.5% charge for payment by credit card.

Withdrawal from one or more Courses

A student may withdraw from a winter session course between January 4 and January 9, 2016 by submitting a written notice to Dean Garbaccio’s office. A grade of “W” will be entered for any course dropped during this period. A 50% refund of tuition only will be refunded for any course dropped on January 4, 2016. There will be no refund of tuition or fees for any course dropped after January 4, 2016.

Examination Schedule

Cyber Warfare and Cybersecurity in the New World: exam is web-administered, self-scheduled, between January 22 and January 25, 2016.

Non-Profit Corporations/Tax Exempt Organizations: 24 hour take-home examination which maybe taken any time between January 18 and January 21, 2016.
